

WILSON URGES STEPS TO LOWER PRICES

WARNS LABOR STRIKES MAKE MATTERS WORSE

Says Permanent Results Cannot Come Until Treaty is Ratified

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson laid several specific proposals before congress today for checking the high cost of living at the same time declared permanent results could not be expected until peace time bases were fully restored by ratification of the peace treaty.

Blames Retailers. High prices, the president told congress, were not justified by shortage of supplies, either present or prospective, but were created in many cases "artificially and deliberately" by "vicious practices." Retailers, he said, were responsible in large part for exorbitant prices.

Strikes, the president warned the labor board, would only make matters worse and those who sought to employ threats or coercion were only "preparing their own destruction."

Leaders of organized labor, the president said, he was sure would presently yield to second sober thought.

"Illegal" and "criminal" were the words the president used in characterizing the methods by which some present day prices have been brought about.

Measures Specifically Urged. Present laws, he said, would be energetically employed to the limit to force out food hoards and meet the situation so far as possible but to supplement the existing statutes he specifically urged the following:

Licensing of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce with specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unscrupulous profits in the method of marketing.

Extension of the food control act to peace times and the application of its provisions against hoarding to fuel, clothing and other necessities of life as well as food.

A penalty in the food control act for profiteering.

A law regulating cold storage, limiting the time during which goods may be held; prescribing a method of disposing of them if held beyond the permitted period and requiring that when released goods bear the date of storage.

Laws requiring that goods released from storage for interstate commerce bear the selling prices at which they went into storage and requiring that all goods destined for interstate commerce bear the price at which they left the hands of the producer.

Enactment of the pending bill for the control of security issues.

Additional appropriations for government agencies which can supply the public with full information as to prices at which retailers buy.

Early ratification of the peace treaty so that the "free processes of supply and demand" can operate.

Steps Wilson Promises.

Immediate steps by legislative agencies of the government promised by the president included:

The limiting and controlling of wheat shipments and credits to facilitate the purchase of wheat in such a way as not to raise, but rather to lower the price of flour at home.

Sale of surplus stocks of food and clothing in the hands of the government.

The forced withdrawal from storage and sales of surplus stocks in private hands.

General recommendations included:

Increase of production.

Careful buying by housewives.

Fair dealing with the people on the part of the producers, middlemen and merchants.

That there be no threats and undue insistence upon the interest of a single class.

Correction of "many things" in the relation between capital and labor in respect to wages and conditions of labor.

In including the president made a plea for deliberate, intelligent action reminding congress that an unbalanced world was looking to the United States.

"We and we alone," he said, "now hold the world steady. From our steadfastness and self possession depend the affairs of nations everywhere. It is in this supreme crisis—that crisis for all mankind—that America must prove her mettle."

STRIKING SHOPMEN RETURNING TO WORK

To Withdraw All Soldiers From Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 8.—State troops were ordered removed today from the scenes of last week's race riots and the stock yards today after a general strike of union workers had badly crippled packing companies and livestock dealers had notified producers to suspend shipments to Chicago temporarily.

Altho four regiments, including all troops at the stock yards, were withdrawn tonight by order of Adjutant General Dickson upon request of Mayor Thompson, union leaders declared the strike would continue until policemen and deputy sheriffs also had left the yards.

The second and the fourth regiments of militia and the ninth and tenth regiments of Illinois National Guard were withdrawn this afternoon and the two guard regiments immediately began leaving for their homes downstate. The fourth regiment commander notified his men they would leave Chicago tomorrow morning. The first and the third regiments of militia and the eleventh national guard continued on duty but were ordered withdrawn tomorrow. The last state troops would be out of Chicago by tomorrow night, according to General Dickson's plans.

Mayor Thompson wrote Governor Lowden that conditions demanding the presence of troops no longer prevailed and requested their removal. The governor then directed the adjutant general to withdraw the soldiers.

Jobbers and wholesalers must guarantee to resell to retailers at not more than 75 cents additional and retailers are confined to an increase of not more than $1.25 over the wholesale price for the original packages and must not charge more than seven cents a pound for broken packages.

The grain corporation also announced that its wheat purchase at Baltimore of wheat flour packed for export was 1,031,913 barrels at prices ranging from $9.80 to $10.49 per barrel.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The surrender of General Kruska, commander of the German prison camp at Kaser, has been demanded by the allies as the first of the enemy officials to be tried for violations of international law, during the war, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company quoting Berlin advice. Gen. Kruska is accused of having been responsible for an epidemic of typhus at the Kaser camp which killed 3,000 French prisoners.

Text of President Wilson's Address To Congress on High Cost of Living

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson's address to congress today embodying recommendations designed to reduce the cost of living follows:

"Gentlemen of the Congress: 'Prices are Not Justified.' 'I have sought this opportunity to address you because it is clearly my duty to call your attention to the present cost of living and to urge upon you with all the persuasive force of which I am capable the legislative measures which would be most effective in controlling it and bringing it down. The prices the people of this country are paying for everything that it is necessary for them to use in order to live are not justified by a shortage in supply, either present or prospective, and are in many cases artificially and deliberately created by vicious practices which ought immediately to be checked by law. They constitute a burden upon us which is the more unbearable because we know that it is willfully imposed by those who have the power and that it can be met by vigorous public action be greatly lightened and made to square with the actual conditions of supply and demand. Some of the methods by which these prices are produced are already illegal, some of them criminal, and those who employ them will be energetically proceeded against; but others have not yet been brought under the law, and should be dealt with at once by legislation.

Permanent Relief Depends on Peace. 'We are just now shipping more goods out of our ports to foreign markets than we ever shipped before—not foodstuffs merely, but stuffs and materials of every sort; but this is no index of what our foreign sales will continue to be or of the effect the volume of our exports will have on supplies and prices. It is impossible yet to predict how far or how long foreign purchasers will be able to find the money or the credit to pay for or sustain such purchases on such a scale; how soon or to what extent foreign manufacturers can resume their former production, foreign farmers get their accustomed crops from their own fields, foreign mines resume their foreign output, foreign merchants set up again their old machinery of trade with the end of the war. All these things must remain uncertain until peace is established and the nations of the world have concerted the methods by which normal life and industry are to be restored. All that we shall do, in the meantime, to restrain profiteering and put the life of our people upon a tolerable footing will be makeshift and provisional. There can be no settled conditions here or elsewhere until the treaty of peace is out of the way and the work of liquidating the war has become the chief concern of our government and of the other governments of the world. Until then business will inevitably remain speculative and away from the way and again that, with heavy losses or heavy gains as it may chance, and the consumer must take care of both the gains and the losses. There can be no peace prices so long as our whole financial and economic system is on a war basis.

Europe will not, cannot recupe her capital or put her restless, distracted peoples to work until she knows exactly and where she stands in respect of peace; and what we will do is for her the chief question upon which the quietude of mind and confidence of purpose depend. While there is any possibility that the peace terms may be changed or may be held long in abeyance or may not be enforced because of divisions of opinion among the powers allied against Germany, it is idle to look for permanent relief.

Great Deal Can Be Done. 'But what we can do we should do, and should do at once, and there is a great deal we can do, provisional to it be. Wheat shipments and credits to facilitate the purchase of our wheat can and will be limited and controlled in such a way as not to raise but rather to lower the price of flour here. The government has the power, without certain limits to regulate that. We cannot deny wheat to foreign peoples who are in dire need of it, and we do not wish to do so, but fortunately, the wheat crop is not what we hoped it would be, it is abundant if handled with provident care. The price of wheat is lower in the United States than in Europe and can with proper management be kept so.

By way of immediate relief, surplus stocks of both food and clothing in the hands of the government will be sold, and of course sold at prices at which there is no profit. And by way of a more permanent correction of prices surplus stocks in private hands will be drawn out of storage and put upon the market. Fortunately, under the terms of the food control act the hoarding of foodstuffs can be checked and prevented; and they will be with the greatest energy. Foodstuffs can be drawn out of storage and sold by legal action which the department of justice will institute wherever necessary, but so soon as the situation is systematically dealt with it is not likely that the courts will often have to be resorted to. Much of the accumulating of stocks has no doubt been due to the sort of speculation which always results from uncertainty. Great surpluses were accumulated because it was impossible to foresee what the market world disclose and dealers were determined to be ready for whatever might happen, as well as eager to reap the full advantage of rising prices. They will now see the disadvantage as well as the danger of holding off from the new process of distribution.

Disclose Significant Facts. 'Some very interesting and significant facts with regard to stocks on hand and the rise of prices in the face of abundance have been disclosed by the inquiries of the department of agriculture, the department of labor and the federal trade commission. They seem to justify the statement that in the case of many necessary commodities effective means have been found to prevent the normal operation of the law of supply and demand. Disregarding the surplus stocks in the hands of the government there was a greater supply of foodstuffs in this country on June first of this year than at the same date last year. In the combined total of a number of the most important foods in dry and cold storage the excess is quite fifteen per cent. And yet prices have risen.

The supply of fresh eggs on hand in June of this year, for example was greater by nearly ten per cent than the supply on hand at the same time last year and yet the whole same price was forty cents a dozen as against thirty cents a year ago. The stock of frozen fowls had increased more than two hundred and eighty per cent and yet the price had risen also thirty four and a half cents per pound to thirty-seven and a half cents. The supply of creamery butter had increased a hundred and twenty-nine per cent and the price from forty one to fifty three cents per pound. The supply of salt beef had been augmented three per cent and the price had gone up from thirty four dollars a barrel to thirty six dollars a barrel. Canned corn had increased in stock nearly ninety two per cent and had remained substantially the same in price. In a few foodstuffs the prices had declined, but in nothing like the proportion in which the supply had increased.

Studied Situation Carefully. 'The attorney general will cause a careful study of the situation as a whole and of the laws that can be applied to better it and is convinced that, under the stipulation and temptation of exceptional circumstances, combinations of producers and combinations of traders have been formed for the control of supplies and of prices which are clearly in restraint of trade and against the public interest. They will be promptly instituted and actively pushed which will in all likelihood have a prompt corrective effect. There is reason to believe that the prices of leather, of coal, of lumber and of textiles have been materially affected by forms of concert and cooperation among the producers and marketers of these and other universal necessities commodities which it will be possible to redress. No watchful or energetic effort will be spared to accomplish this necessary result. I trust that there will not be many cases in which prosecution will be necessary. Public action will no doubt cause many who have perhaps unwittingly adopted illegal methods to abandon them promptly and of their own motion.

And publicity can accomplish a great deal. The purchaser can often help himself if he knows the facts. The department of commerce, the department of agriculture, the department of labor, and the federal trade commission can do a great deal towards supplying the public, systematically and at short intervals with information regarding the actual supply of particular commodities that is in existence but not available because of hoarding, and with regard to the methods of price fixing which are being used by dealers in certain foodstuffs and other necessities. There can be little doubt that retailers are in part—sometimes in large part— responsible for exorbitant prices; and it is quite practicable for the government thru the agencies I have mentioned to supply the public with full information as to the prices at which retailers buy and as to the costs of transportation they pay, in order that it may be known just what margin of profit they are demanding. Opinion and concerted action on the part of purchasers can probably do the rest.

Must Provide Funds. 'That is, these agencies may perform this indispensable service provided the congress will supply them with the necessary funds to prosecute their inquiries and keep their price lists up to date. Hitherto the appropriation comes of the houses have not always, I fear, seen the full value of these inquiries, and the department and commissions have been very much straitened for means to render this service. That adequate funds be provided by appropriation for this purpose and provided as promptly as possible is one of the means of greatly ameliorating the present distressing conditions of livelihood that I have come to urge in this attempt to concert with you the best ways to serve the country in this emergency. It is one of the absolute necessities means, underlying many others and can be supplied at once.

There are many other ways. Existing law is inadequate. There are many perfectly legitimate methods by which the government can exercise restraint and guidance.

Would Extend Control Act. 'Let me urge in the first place that the present food control act should be extended both as to the period of time during which it shall remain in open and as to the commodities to which it shall apply. Its provisions against hoarding should be made to apply not only to food but also to feed stuffs, to fuel, to clothing and to many other commodities which are indispensably necessities of life. As it stands now it is limited in operation to the period of the war and becomes inoperative upon the formal proclamation of peace. But I should judge that it was clearly within the constitutional power of the congress to make similar permanent provisions and regulations with regard to all goods destined for interstate commerce and to exclude them from interstate shipment if the requirements of the law are not complied with.

Some such regulation is imperatively necessary. The abuses that have grown up in the manipulation of prices by the withholding of foodstuffs and other necessities of life cannot otherwise be effectively prevented. There can be no doubt of either the necessity or the legitimacy of such measures. May I not call attention to the fact, also that, altho the present act prohibits profiteering, the prohibition is accompanied by no penalty. It is clearly in the public interest that a penalty should be provided which would be persuasive.

Wants Cold Storage Regulated. 'To the same end, I earnestly recommend in the second place, that the congress pass a law regulating cold storage as it is regulated, for example, by the laws of the state of New Jersey which limit the time during which goods may be kept in storage, prescribing a method of disposing of them if kept beyond the permitting period and require that goods released from storage shall in all cases bear the date of their receipt. It would materially add to the servability of the law for the purpose we now have in view if it were also prescribed that all goods released from storage for interstate shipment should have plainly marked upon each package the selling or market price at which they were received into storage. By this means the purchaser would always be able to learn what profits stood between him and the producer or the wholesale dealer.

It would serve as a useful example to the other communities of the country as well as greatly relieve local distress if the congress were to regulate all such matters very fully for the District of Columbia, where its legislative authority is without limit. I would also recommend that it be required that all goods destined for interstate commerce should in every case where their form or package makes it possible to be plainly marked with the price at which they left the hands of the producer. Such a requirement would bear a close analogy to certain provisions of the pure food act, by which it is required that

THE VALUE OF PLAY.

Springfield is earnestly discussing the question of supervised play in the public schools and the persons supporting the movement have presented strong evidence to show its educational value. There has been a great change in sentiment on this subject of play and recreation with passing years and those who have paid any attention to the subject now realize that play and recreation have an important relationship to both the mental and physical development of the child.

MAY HELP SOME

Senator Campbell of the rules committee and Senator McCormick certainly started a popular movement when they asked for a tax reduction of a billion dollars for next year. This sum, even split up among all the millions of the U. S. will be worth while and help the looks of tax receipts next year in a very satisfactory way.

But meanwhile, if you are inclined to worry don't think about your 1920 taxes. They are certain to be higher because of changing times and new laws but, as always, they have to be paid just the same.

AN INTERESTING THEORY.

The argument sometimes put forward that it is a mistake in the present industrial situation to reduce the hours of labor and thus decrease production instead of increasing it, is often heard these days. This same argument suggests that the question of production is also largely in the consumers' hands. In some communities there have been organized efforts on the part of consumers to lower prices by lowering the demand. The only way that can come about is by a lesser consumption of foodstuffs.

The truism given to this theory have of course been been only of a local kind but it is easy to understand what would happen if there were a consumers' league with 50,000,000 people, half of the U. S. as members and they were all pledged to reduce their demands and to "consume" as little as possible during the next few months. That of course is not going to happen and if it did would possibly bring on a financial crisis. But certainly a surplus of supplies thus created would bring the lower prices about which so many people are talking.

WHAT ARE NECESSARIES?

In these days we hear a great deal about the increased cost of the necessities of life. There is no question but that the things that people eat and wear have gone up enormously in price. It is also true that the costs of the things that people do have increased in like manner. Honestly compare one's bill today with the higher cost of living today is largely a matter of individual responsibility. If each person confined his expenditures to those things which are really necessary, those expenditures would be cut down to a marvelous degree. The trouble is that none of us are satisfied to live just the way that our ancestors did or with the same economy that characterized the life of 20 years ago.

Conditions change. People spend more money. They have more pleasures. They possibly get more out of life than they used to but at any rate the complex civilization of today costs a great deal more than that of the years gone by. It is just as well to remember the fact that we are bemoaning the high cost of "necessities."

WAVERLY'S FINE SPIRIT

Waverly cannot boast about being a large city but its people must be credited with a fine degree of local patriotism. Contracts have been let for landscape gardening and funds have been provided for other extensive physical betterments. But the best bit of work that Waverly has done in recent months has been in the 23 children from Chicago. The people of that town and the surrounding community gladly joined in the movement to give several hundred children from the tenement district of Chicago an outing in the country.

These children were all placed thru the Nancy Carr home and it was known that they were all deserving cases, children who would otherwise never have the chance to know anything about the grass, trees, domestic animals that form such an important part of farm life—that is from a child point of view.

Giving pleasure to these children of the tenements—children who knew little of the joys of life, children most of them undernourished—that is certainly a work of charity that is not without its reward here or hereafter. The present day rewards can be summed up in the evident pleasure of the children and in their bettered physical appearance when they had concluded their week's outing in a world entirely new to them.

COMBINATIONS NOT ALWAYS BAD.

The Kenyon bill which is now before congress proposing the licensing of packing houses as a means of controlling their business is widely approved and has also aroused a storm of opposition. There are a good many arguments to show that this bill provides the means whereby the government may have accurate knowledge of how the business of the packers is being conducted and so can be in position to know whether or not there is profiteering, and the public is being charged unjust prices.

But the bill goes farther and proposes not only the licensing of packers but would prevent them from engaging in any other line of business. This seems to violate the constitutional and personal rights for certainly any man or corporation in this country should have the authority to engage in any line of business which is not unlawful, just so long as that business is not conducted in a way which is in opposition to the public good. The bill presumes too that all combinations of capital are detrimental to the public.

As a matter of fact, combinations of capital are often beneficial to the public. They can make possible lesser costs of production and distribution, and if so conducted that this lower cost shows in the selling price, then the public has been benefited. It is not combinations of capital that are against the public interest but combinations that are unlawfully handled. In the agitation against "trusts" and against all combinations of capital people sometimes forget these facts and also forget the fact that the larger scale of operation which results from entirely separate management, the salaries for a much larger number of officials, is in the end all charged up to the consumer.

SEEKING TO DEFEAT THE PEOPLE'S WILL.

The relator who has signed the petition asking authority for the filing of quo warranto proceedings to contest the right of E. E. Crabtree to the office of mayor, must at least be complimented for his willingness to come out in the open and acknowledge identification with this unpopular proceeding.

Not as much can be said for the relator's associates, the men who are behind this movement, which purposes to set aside the will of the great majority of the people of Jacksonville and to put into office some candidate who represents a minority. It is only fair to assume that there are other men associated with Mr. Crabtree for such a movement does not originate with one man nor is one man willing to pay the legal expense which such a proceeding must necessarily incur.

The public must remain in some doubt as to the identity of these men and their purposes but possibly not nearly so much doubt as the men imagine.

What good purpose can a group of men have in seeking to oust from office a man who was persuaded to become a candidate against his own wishes;—a man who is serving without salary, along with aldermen on the same basis, and who has undertaken the task of bettering the financial conditions of Jacksonville. The present city administration purposes to better the financial status of Jacksonville, but is seeking things even larger than that of a community spirit which will give benefits of a material kind that even tax money cannot provide.

What good motive can any man or group of men have in seeking to tear down the work which is being started, in seeking to bring about turmoil, dissatisfaction and unrest? The water works project is under way, other betterments are in prospect and the administration has plans in mind which thru the co-operation of the people it believes will benefit every citizen of Jacksonville.

Now Mr. Green and his unnamed associates step in and contribute to a fund to disturb all these things. They seek to overthrow the will of the majority. They do not contribute to the betterment of the city.

Then what is it they do want? Nobody seems to know exactly what the purpose is other than that it is a selfish purpose, a desire to control city affairs without the consent of the people. Maybe somebody wants a job. Maybe somebody wants jobs for friends. But no matter what is wanted, a sinister, selfishness, an absolute disregard of public welfare and public opinion, is at the bottom of this movement.

Meanwhile the friends of Mr. Crabtree who persuaded him against his wish to take the office of mayor will not let this case go by default. The majority will be duly represented at the court hearing.

Rippling Rhymes By Walt Mason

MISFITS

Perhaps you're sadly out of place; perhaps you were intended, with your ability and grit; but something high and splendid; but while you're doomed to hold a job that mocks your high ambition, it isn't well to moan or sob about your punk condition. If you were born for better things, the work you do will show it; perhaps some day you'll walk with kings, or be a wealthy poet. I used to ride a mangy steed, and herd a bunch of cattle, while thinking I was born to lead the mighty hosts in battle. Such work to me was an offense; the ground was rough and rutty, the pony hadn't any sense, the cattle all were nutty. I herded, tho, the best I knew, and chased the loosed heifers, while through my sorrel sideboards blew all kinds of wintry zephyrs. And when I quit the foreman cried urbanely and politely, "You seemed to take an honest pride in herding, and now you're loafing, and I am in a gildred case, and I want a lye of pewter, and turn out elegies like these, some cute and others cuter. The weary path on which you hike is rough, but gamely tread it; some day you'll find the job you like, and hold it down with credit."

GASOLINE FAMINE FACES JACKSONVILLE

Some Garages Have No Gasoline and Others Are Serving Only Customers as Long as Supply Lasts—Alkire is Entirely Out—Standard Oil Supply Curtailed.

Along with other troubles brought by the railroad tieup is a gasoline famine that now faces Jacksonville and vicinity.

The situation became acute Friday when James S. Alkire, who supplies a large clientele announced that he was sold out. Mr. Alkire has a supply on the road some place. He does not know where it should have arrived Monday but failed to and now its arrival is entirely dependant on when the strike conditions are suspended.

While it was impossible to get in touch with J. W. Wright, manager of the local Standard Oil station, it is understood that the company's supply also is curtailed by the strike. It is known that the company delivered gasoline to customers yesterday but probably in limited quantities.

A number of garages were only selling to their customers. In fact it seemed to be the rule with all local garage owners to keep what little supply was on hand for their customers.

Fire Chief Hunt when asked about the condition of the fire department as to gasoline said that he had on hand about seventy five to eighty gallons and the tanks of both trucks filled.

The chief said he had given orders to other departments which have cars to cease using from the fire department stores. Unless some unusual condition arises the supply of gasoline now held by the department will last for several months based on the amount used for the last four months as shown by the recent report of Chief Hunt.

A good time to get a comfortable suit of knoles.

AGAIN THE MONUMENT

Announcement was made yesterday morning that work on the soldiers' monument was to begin shortly as the county board formally so notified the park board to get the arch for victory welcome out of the way.

Yesterday morning the chairman of the park board saw Mr. Fernandes, contractor for the foundation and the gentleman said that it was his intention to begin work at the earliest possible moment and he had most of the material on hand. He lacked some stone for concrete foundation and in normal times could have it here in a few days but just how it will be now is a question so that after all the new hope may be delusive.

The granite contractors wrote that they expected to be ready this month with their material. Last fall the work was stopped by the government officials owing to the material regulations and now the railroad situation may be somewhat of a hindrance but all will hope the delay will not be long. Mr. Fernandes has most of the foundation material and is ready to begin as soon as he can command all needed articles called for in the contract.

The first annual picnic of the Cass County Farm Bureau was given Thursday at the farm of Dr. Carl E. Black, located southeast of Virginia. The arrangements for the event were made by W. A. McNeill of Chandlerville, president of the bureau, and R. R. Dickenson, farm adviser of Cass county. The Virginia Concert band furnished music for the occasion, and provided a fine program.

The women were addressed at the same time by Mrs. Margaret Bangs, lecturer from the domestic science department of the Illinois Farmers' Institute association. The subject of her address was the advantages of domestic science in culinary and other departments of the home.

Following the dinner which was served on the grounds, came an address by Eugene D. Funk of Bloomington, who represented Illinois farmers at the late conference in the national capital. The speaker told of some of the problems of agriculture and the methods of meeting the same in other states and countries. Another speaker was Charles Adkins of Springfield, state director of agriculture, who spoke of the farmer and the future. Other addresses of a brief kind were made and various forms of recreation were provided for the large crowd present.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Hendrix held New York to three scattered hits today, while Chicago, hitting Neph opportunely shut out the visitors 3 to 0, in the first game of the series. It was the first time since the Giants have been shut out by a right hand pitcher and the third time they have been held useless. Neph, for whom the New Yorkers recently paid $40,000 to Boston, made his first appearance on the mound since joining McGraw's club.

publication notices should be held down just as much as possible.

There was some discussion of the difference between an audit and a financial analysis and it was determined that the latter is what the situation and the people require. There was the sentiment that there should be just as little delay as possible and that the financial committee should seek to get into early action so that their report will be available for the joint committee and permit a legal procedure in preparation for the bond issue.

May Make Suggestions.
Mr. Gause mentioned that the statement prepared by Price, Waterhouse & Co., showed the need for in some way stabilizing the city's finances and it is likely that the financial committee will not only present the desired analysis but may also give some suggestions as to the best method of conducting city financial affairs in the days to come.

Mr. Becker asked that a statement be made also as to what revenues may be expected when the city's new water system becomes operative. Mr. Gause declared that it was only a question of time until all employees must live on the present wages and that things of this kind should be taken into account in making suggestions for future financial policy.

The meeting adjourned with the understanding that another session will be held as soon as the financial committee is able to make its report and the general committee hopes that this report will be ready early the coming week.

WILSON ADDRESSES CONGRESS ON HIGH COST OF LIVING

certain detailed information be given on the labels of packages of food and drugs. And it does not seem to me that we can confine ourselves to detailed measures of this kind, if it is indeed our purpose to assume national control of the processes of distribution. I take it for granted that that is our purpose and our duty. Nothing less will suffice. We need not hesitate to handle a national question in a national way. We should go beyond the measures I have suggested. We should formulate a law requiring a federal license of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and embodying in the license, or in the conditions under which it is to be issued specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unconscionable profits in the method of marketing. Such a law would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and the methods of corporations which are engaged in it, but for the moment I confine my recommendations to the object immediately in hand which is to lower the cost of living.

Refers to Pending Bill
"May I not add that there is a bill before the congress, which, if passed, would do much to stop speculation and to prevent fraudulent methods of promotion by which our people are annually deceived of many millions of hard earned money. I refer to the measure proposed by the capital issues committee for the control of security issues. It is a measure formulated by men who know the actual conditions of business and its adoption would serve a great and beneficial purpose."

"We are dealing, gentlemen of the congress, I need hardly say with very critical and very difficult matters. We should go forward with confidence along the road we see but we should also seek to comprehend the whole of the scene amidst which we act. There is no ground for some of the fearful forecasts I hear uttered about me but the condition of the world is unquestionably very grave and we should face it comprehending."

"The situation of our country is exceptionally fortunate. We of all peoples can afford to keep our heads and to determine upon moderate and sensible courses of action which will ensure us against the passions and discontents which are working such deep unhappiness in some of the distressed nations on the other side of the sea. But we may be involved in their distresses unless we help and help with energy and intelligence."

Must Pay for Destruction.
"The world must pay for the appalling destruction wrought by the great war and we are part of the world. We must pay our share. For five years now the industry of all Europe has been slack and disordered. The normal crops have not been produced, the normal quantity of manufactured goods has not been turned out. Not until there are the usual crops and the usual production of manufactured goods on the other side of the Atlantic can Europe return to the former conditions; and it was upon the former conditions, not the present, that our economic relations with Europe were built up. We must face the fact that unless we help Europe to get back to her normal life and production a chaos will ensue there which will inevitably be communicated to this country. For the present it is manifest we must quicken, not slacken, our own production. And we must alone now hold the world steady. Upon our steadfastness and self-possession depend the affairs of nations everywhere. It is in this supreme crisis—that crisis for all mankind—that America must prove her mettle. In the presence of a world confused, distracted, she must show herself possessed self contained, capable of sober and effective action. She must alone now save it by her action in peace. In saving Europe she will save herself as she did upon the battlefields of the war. The calmness and capacity with which she deals with and masters the problems of peace will be the final test and proof of her place among the peoples of the world."

"And, if only in our own interest we must help the people overseas. Europe is our biggest customer. We must keep her going or thousands of our shops and scores of our mines must close. There is no such thing as letting her go to ruin without ourselves sharing in the disaster. In such circumstances, face to face with such tests, passion must be discarded. Passion and a disregard for the rights of others have no place in the councils of a free people. We need light, not heat in these solemn times of self-examination and saving action. There must be no threats. Let there be only intelligent counsel and let the best reasoned win, not the strongest brute force. The world has just restored the arbitrary force of a military junta. It will live under no other. All that is arbitrary and coercive is in the discard. Those who seek to employ it only prepare their own destruction. We cannot hastily and overnight revolutionize all the processes of our economic life. We shall not attempt to do so. These are days of deep excitement and of extravagant speech, but with us these are the days of the surface. Everyone who is in real touch with the silent masses of our great people knows that the old strong fibre and steady self control are still there, firm against violence, or any distemperament of action that would throw their affairs into confusion. I am serenely confident that they will find themselves, no matter what the circumstances and that they will address themselves to the tasks of peace with the same devotion and the same stalwart preference for what is right that they displayed to the admiration of the whole world in the midst of war."

Enters Confident Hope.
"And I enter another confident hope. I have spoken today chiefly of measures of imperative regulation and legal compulsion of prosecutions and the sharp correction of selfish processes; and these doubtless are necessary. But there are other forces that we may count on besides those resident in the department of justice. We have just fully awakened to what has been going on and to the influences, many of them very selfish and sinister that have been producing high prices and imposing an intolerable burden on the mass of our people. We have brought it all into the open part of the result we seek. I appeal with entire confidence to our producers, our middlemen and our merchants to deal fairly with the people. It is their opportunity to show that they comprehend that they intend to act justly and that they have the public interest entirely at heart. And I have no doubt that housekeepers all over the country and every one who buys the things he daily stands in need of will presently exercise a greater vigilance, a more thoughtful economy, a more discriminating care as to the market in which he buys or the merchant with whom he trades than he has hitherto exercised."

"I believe too, that the more extreme leaders of organized labor will presently yield to a sober second thought and like the great mass of their associates think and act like true Americans. They will see that strikes undertaken at this critical time are certain to make matters worse, not better—worse for them and for everybody else. The worst thing, the most fatal thing, that can be done now or to interfere with the distribution of goods by the railways and the shippings of the country. We are all involved in the distressing results of the high cost of living and we must unite, not divide, to correct it. There are many things that ought to be corrected in the relations between capital and labor, in respect of wages and conditions of labor and other things even more far reaching, and I for one am ready to go into conference about these matters with any group of my fellow countrymen who know what they are talking about and are willing to remedy conditions by frank counsel rather than by violent contest. No remedy is possible while men are in a temper and there can be no settlement which does not have as its motive and standard the general interest. Threats and undue insistence upon the interest of a single class make settlement impossible. I believe as I have hitherto had occasion to say to the congress that the industry and life of our people and of the world will suffer irreparable damage if employers and workmen are to go on in a perpetual contest, as antagonists. They must on one plane or another be effectively associated. Have we not steadiness and self-possession and business sense enough to work out that result? Undoubtedly we have; and we shall work it out. In the meantime—now and in the days of readjustment and recuperation that are ahead of us—let us resort more and more to frank and intimate counsel and make ourselves

Big Lot of HAY FEVER JOKES

But Kentucky Man Says—"People Who Belong to Hay Fever Society are Kidding Themselves."

Wouldn't Be Any Rose or Hay Fever if Simple Home Remedy was Given a Chance.

"Yes, there's a real NINETYNINE per cent effective remedy for hay or rose fever," frankly states a druggist in a prosperous Kentucky city.

But I don't expect anyone to believe me, because the treatment is so easy and the cost not worth mentioning."

"The annual crop of hay-fever jokes would be mighty scarce if people would get an ounce of Mentholized Arcline and by just adding water that has been boiled make a pint of liquid that will prove a real help to all who suffer."

"Many of my hay-fever friends tell me that by starting to gargle and sniff or spray the nostrils a few times a day the expected severe attack often fails to appear and in cases where it does show up is very mild and does not annoy."

The Better Class of Pharmacists who dispense Mentholized Arcline say it will greatly modify any attack even when taken three or four days after hostilities begin."

Go to a real live druggist when you get ready to make a pint.

7 A DAY FOR 7 DAYS

If Your Nerves Are Shaky Because of Over-Indulgence in Tobacco or Alcohol or by Excess of Any Kind, Bio-Feren is What You Need Right Away.

Don't grow old before your time, don't let nervousness wreck your happiness or chances in life. The man with strong, steady nerves is full of vigor, energy, ambition and confidence.

You can have nerves of steel, firm step, new courage and a new mind by putting your blood and nerves in first-class shape with mighty Bio-Feren, a new discovery, inexpensive and efficient.

Men and women who get up so tired in the morning that they have to drag themselves to their daily labor will in just a few days labor with clear mind, definite purpose and loads of ambition.

All you have to do is to take two Bio-Feren tablets after each meal and one at bedtime—7 a day for 7 days—then reduce to one after each meal until all are gone.

Then if your energy and endurance haven't doubled, if your mind isn't keener and eyes brighter, if you don't feel twice as ambitious as before, any druggist anywhere will return the purchase price—gladly and freely.

Bio-Feren is without doubt the grandest remedy for nervous, run-down, weak, anemic men and women ever offered and is not at all expensive. All druggists in this city and vicinity have a supply on hand—sell many packages.

CROP REPORT TURNS CORN PRICE UPWARD

Anticipations of Bullish Reports Are More Than Fulfilled

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Anticipations which were more than fulfilled that the government crop report would be bullish did a good deal to turn the prices of all deliveries of corn upward today at the last. The close was nervous, 1/4 to 1/2 net higher, with September $1.89 1/2 @ $1.90 and December $1.50 1/2 @ $1.51 1/2. Oats gained 1 1/2 @ 1/2 c. In provisions the outcome ranged from 15c decline to 10c advance.

LIVING COST WAR INFLUENCES BUSINESS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

"The agitation against high living costs, growing in intensity and finding reflection in the increasing unrest of labor, has not been without influence on business. Instead of the preponderance of advances which has characterized the movement of wholesale commodity quotations for a long period, recessions this week are slightly in the majority

ANOTHER OVERSEAS VETERAN HOME

Sergeant Ordram P. Fox Arrives in Jacksonville Friday After Long Service in France.

Sergeant Ordram P. Fox, Co. A, 7th Engineers, 5th Division, world war veteran of eighteen months overseas service, was an arrival in Jacksonville Friday noon. Sergeant Fox had the good fortune to go thru three major offensives without a scratch. He is looking fine and says that army life surely agreed with him.

Fox enlisted with the U. S. engineers in Jacksonville Sept. 25, 1917. He was sent to Jefferson Barracks and then to Fort Leavenworth, Kas., where he was stationed until Oct. 21. On that date he with other members of the 7th Engineers entrained for Camp Merritt. They there received overseas equipment and sailed soon after. The 7th Engineers landed at Liverpool, Eng., were sent to Winchester, Eng., and drilled there one week. They then were sent to Southampton, then to LaHarve, France, and later to Montigny le Roye. There they built Base Hospital 15. They went up to the Argued sector July 3rd. Went over the top at the battle of Frappeville, Aug. 17. Started on hike for St. Mihiel Aug. 26th, covering 33 kilometers under full pack, in the rain and mud. Arriving at the front at 9 p. m. on the night of Sept. 11th, they were at once sent out to cut barbed wire entanglements and were thus employed until midnight. They returned to the American sector and were later assigned to tanks with French operatives. They went over the top with the tanks at 5 a. m., in charge of Sergeant Bergen. The tank to which Fox and men were assigned was blown up by a mine 70 feet to the left of this Court Road. The engineers continued on as infantry after the loss of the tank, later retiring to build and maintain roads for the artillery and to help the artillery to advance. On Sept. 26th the 7th Engineers were ordered to the Argonne. There they worked on the roads until Oct. 14th when they went over the top as infantry, bridged the Audun, constructed barbed wire entanglements by night and repaired roads by day.

They were relieved on Oct. 21st, being given 8 days complete rest, the first rest which the had had since landing in France. Went back in Oct. 9th, building pontoon bridges at Bruelles on the Meuse, Canal d'Est, and at Din-Sur-Meuse, in the face of machine gun and heavy artillery fire. Followed the Germans up until Dec. 13th. Sergeant Fox was then placed on detached service with others under Col. E. G. Pollis to take inventories and make reports of the materials turned over to the Allies by the enemy.

On Feb. 6th Sgt. Fox was put in charge of entertainment for the 5th Division, composed of 22,000 men. To do this work 10 G. M. C. ambulances with portable moving picture apparatus and four stationary moving picture machines were necessary to supply the entertainment of the area covered by the division, 29 towns in the Duchy of Luxembourg. Sergeant Fox also had charge of the sending out of Y. M. C. A. army, and K. C. shows and concerts. This work required 12 trucks and 7 touring cars each night to produce the average of 100 nights of entertainment per week.

Fox sailed July 13th, landed the 21st, and was sent first to Hoboken and later to Camp Grant where he received his discharge Aug. 7th.

Sergeant Fox has a number of maps and photographs, one of the latter being taken at the great American cemetery near Romagne where 14,000 American boys are buried.

LOCAL CAR SHOP WORKERS VOTE TO CONTINUE STRIKE

Message Received Yesterday from American Federation of Labor Official Asking C. P. & St. L. Shop Employees to Return to Work is Ignored by Men—Arrangements Made Whereby Passenger Train Between This City and Havana Will Resume Schedule Today.

The railroad strike situation Friday did not look any worse nor did it seem any better. That is the way a railroad man summed it up yesterday. He added that the situation is so complicated that no man can form a definite opinion as to what the outcome will be. He was considering the situation as a whole and not merely that of the C. P. & St. L. shopmen's strike. The strike is complicated by the fact that it is in opposition to the constituted authority of the striking unions, a strike within the unions themselves, as he explained it. If this insurrection against the duly constituted union authorities becomes general enough and strong enough, it may tie up the railroads of the country. So far it is a country wide series of local strikes.

Vote to Continue Strike.
Absolutely in defiance of orders received from R. M. Jewell, acting president and executive counsel of the railroad employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, requesting the employees of the local C. P. & St. L. railroad shops to return to their work at once, the members of the various unions employed at the Jacksonville shops at their meeting at Trades and Labor Assembly hall yesterday afternoon, voted unanimously to continue the strike.

Will Run Train Today.
A committee composed of Frank McKenna representing the boiler-makers, George Smith, representing the machinists, and Clay Corbridge, the blacksmiths, did however, confer with Supt. George Ingmund and Postmaster R. I. Dunlap yesterday and agreed to give Supt. Ingmund permission to run the mail train on the Jacksonville branch. Thus it will be possible this morning for the regular C. P. & St. L. passenger train to resume scheduled runs between this city and Havana, after a two day interruption in train and mail service.

Jewell's Message.
The heads of the various departments at the local car shops yesterday received the following message from Mr. Jewell:

Chicago, Aug. 8, 1919.
To all Shop Crafts affiliated with the R. R. Employee Department of the American Federation of Labor.

I am directed to use the R. R. wires that prompt dispatch may be obtained in placing before all officers and members of the Shop Crafts affiliated with the Railroad Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor of the C. P. & St. L., a letter from R. M. Jewell, acting president and executive counsel of the Railroad Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor. I therefore give you below Mr. Jewell's letter.

"You will of course take special note of this act that the president takes the position that there will be no further negotiations on questions of national agreement and wage increases until such time as the men return to work. He further takes the position that until such a time as men show proper regard for, and obedience to the laws of their own organization it can not be expected that the Railroad Administration could proceed except when the members of these organizations is handled in orderly manner.

"The action of our membership in striking in violation of the laws of our organization has been detrimental and embarrassing to your officers in handling these negotiations.

"It is therefore plainly our duty to instruct every member now out to return to work at once in order that we may proceed with the negotiations with the hope of securing a satisfactory adjustment.

"Failure of the membership to comply with these instructions within our judgment impairs the usefulness of our organizations as well as having detrimental effect upon the entire labor movement. We have no hesitancy in saying we have an abiding faith in the loyalty in the greater majority of our membership and that they will at once comply with the instructions contained herein. This information should be conveyed to the membership at all points.

"Anticipating favorable action at once and immediate reply. We remain yours fraternally, Executive Counsel of Railroad Employee Department of the American Federation of Labor."

(signed) R. M. Jewell, Acting President.

W. G. Bied, Federal Manager.

To All Railroad Workers.
On the other hand the council of Railroad Shop Crafts of Chicago has sent the following message to all railroad workers in the U. S. and Canada.

"You are doubtless aware of the long delay, the unpreparedness, the disregard of the general membership, the flagrant violation of our various constitutions, by not complying with the demands of the railroad membership directly involved, as per our laws and resolutions of June 16, 1919; also by not having the strike vote already in their pockets before the negotiations commenced, by keeping the workers in ignorance for a period of 8 or 9 months until finally the workers themselves discovered the shell game.

"But regardless of the opposition of the grand lodge officers, who have been expending on their program of watchful waiting to bring results, we have in our office, as stated on telegrams, the action of 150,000 men who have to this date gone on strike to back our national agreement committee in the original demands for 85 cents for mechanics, 60 cents for helpers and 10 cents per hour increase for apprentices, retroactive to January 1, 1919.

"Bro. Hawver reports today on his return from Washington that the sentiment of the national agreement committee is strong in our favor and they are hoping and praying that the men all over the country will lay down their tools and by this action back them in their demands in our behalf.

"The efforts of the Railway employees department acting president to get us to go back to work pending a strike vote to be counted in Washington on August 24, is only a weak effort to put a wet blanket on our movement.

"There has been no real action or results on the part of G. L. O. and R. E. D. The district council of railway shop crafts of Chicago and vicinity have done more accidentally than the Grand Officials have done intentionally. Please give this message from 200,000 railroad workers the same consideration you would desire if conditions were reversed."

Thousands of Men Out.

According to local shop men the employees of the following roads are co-operating with local strikers at the present time: C. & M. & St. P. R. R.; all men out; C. & E. I. R. R.; all men out; Chicago & Alton R. R., all shop men out; also M. & W. men; 3,000 affected; all clerks on the C. & A. are out; in Bloomington, 500; Nickel Plate R. R., 800 men out; Ann Arbor R. R., all men out; Chicago Junction R. R., all men out; Pennsylvania R. R., 35,000 out; Chicago Northwestern R. R., all out, 20,000 affected; all roads, all crafts out at Duluth, Minn., roads of the northwest, 7,000 men out; all men out at Moberly. Decatur and Landers, 3,000 men affected on the Wabash of Chicago; Illinois Central R. R., all men out of Chicago, Kankakee and Memphis; New York Central and Big Four, all men of Chicago and Indianapolis, 6,000 men affected; Boston and Maine R. R., all men out of Boston and Albany; All railroad shopmen are out at Minneapolis, Minn., 5,000 affected.

Alton Passenger Delayed.

As the result of the shop men's strike on the Alton the morning train due here at 10:15 was several hours late, the engine breaking down a few miles south of Ashland. It was necessary to send to Roadhouse to secure a freight engine to take the train the remainder of its scheduled run. A number of the passengers on the train got off, walked back to Ashland and secured motor transportation to Jacksonville.

Look for Trouble.
The Pennsylvania has an embargo at Columbus, one at Peoria and an embargo against less car load lot stuff at East St. Louis. This is an indication of trouble on connecting lines. The Peoria division is doing business right along but can deliver no stuff to connecting lines in Peoria. Freight for Peoria proper is handled as usual. Indianapolis, Terre Haute and other Pennsylvania points are still open.

The C. I. & W. is handling a large part of the Wabash business out of Decatur. The business of this line has been more than doubled since the strike began. That is one thing which grates on Wabash officials and also on Wabash train and engine men to see their business going to competing lines.

No Passes Issued.
No passes are being issued on the Wabash now for the reason that there are no clerks to write them. Neither are there any time checks issued for the reason that there are no time keepers.

Travel has fallen off enormously as it is quite natural. It is boring trouble now for one to start on a journey that he can possibly postpone.

Mines Still Open.
Wabash mines are still working as they can get empties for loading that is of course become more and more difficult and it is a question of a short time when all mines will close.

Illinois Central shops are still in operation and all trains are running as usual. It is reported that a good deal of pressure is being brought on the shop men in Clinton to induce them to join the strike. The final outcome is problematic.

Wabash clerks in Springfield are all working. On a strike vote the result was 25 to 19 against the strike. The Wabash cluder pit men of Springfield are also working.

Alton Conditions.

Reports from Bloomington that the Alton is already discontinuing the operation of passenger trains are unconfirmed. A commuters train from Joliet to Chicago has been abandoned and the Hammer will pick up the milk.

The coal trains handling the output of the mines between Alton and Springfield were cancelled Wednesday. Some trains of perishable stuff are still being operated. The road is endeavoring to move food and merchandise to the neglect of dead freight.

General Manager A. P. Titus of the Alton has joined other officials in coupling cars, knocking fires and doing such other work as is necessary.

At Springfield.

The city light and water plant at Springfield are facing a shortage of coal and officials are making an effort to get a sufficient supply to tide them over an emergency. Springfield, by the way, has three roads involved in the strike while Decatur so far has only one.

FOOD SUPPLY FACTS NOT YET AVAILABLE

Congressman Yates Promises to Wire as Soon as Plan for Distribution Is Made Known.

At the last meeting of the city council a resolution was presented by Alderman Flynn and unanimously adopted with reference to an effort to secure a car load of government foodstuffs. This resolution suggested that the matter be taken up by the city council and the Trades Assembly and citizens at large with the postmaster. Suggests Direct Action.

Mayor Crabtree, by virtue of this resolution, presented the matter to Postmaster Dunlap. Since Postmaster Dunlap has no information on the subject other than that obtained from the newspapers, he suggested that it would probably be better for the committee to act directly with the government.

It is the postmaster's belief that instructions will soon be received how the foodstuffs in small consignments are to be handled, but that carload lot shipments will not be distributed thru the postoffice agency.

Accordingly Mayor Crabtree sent a letter of inquiry to the Chicago Tribune which has not yet been answered and also sent telegram to Congressman Rich Yates, asking for information. Yesterday a telegram was received by Mr. Crabtree from Miss Dorothy Yates, secretary to her father, indicating that the information is not yet available as to just how a carload of supplies can be secured, but that the information will be sent by wire just as soon as available. The telegram read:

Text of Telegram

"The director of sales will have publication in two days' time giving full information regarding where you can procure carload government foodstuffs. Will let you know immediately upon receipt of same."

"Dorothy Yates, Secretary."

As Mayor Crabtree was compelled to leave the city last night for Omaha, Mich., to adjust a fire loss he will be absent for a number of days, but in his absence the special committee appointed will take whatever action seems best with the desired information comes from Washington.
